Dear Colleague:

The men and women of the Intelligence Community need and deserve our support as they carry out their vital assignments.

Budgetary and legislative support is crucial, of course, but public declarations are important too, and they can serve as real morale boosters. Please join me in co-sponsoring the enclosed Resolution to designate the week beginning June 6, 1985, "National Intelligence Community Week" in honor of the men and women carrying out our nation's intelligence efforts.

Kindly have your staff contact the Intelligence Committee's Chief Clerk, Dot Roberson (4-1748), if you wish to be added as a co-sponsor.

Sincerely,

Dave Durenberger
Chairman

99th CONGRESS

1st SESSION

S. J. RES.

(Note.—Fill in all blank lines except those provided for the date, number, and reference of resolution.)

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

Mr. DURENBERGER

introduced the following joint resolution; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

JOINT RESOLUTION

To designate the week of June 6, 1985, as "National Intelligence Community Week". (Insert title of joint resolution here)

Whereas the work of the men and women of the Intelligence Community is essential to the national security of the United States and to the cause of freedom and democracy throughout the world;

Whereas the dedication of the men and women of the Intelligence Community to the service of their country in difficult and dangerous circumstances abroad, and in arduous intellectually challenging analytical assignments at home, is deserving of special recognition by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States;

Whereas efforts should be made to foster an understanding and appreciation on the part of the American people that intelligence is the first line of national defense and that an effective intelligence capability is vital to the safety and well being of the United States; and

Whereas it is particularly appropriate to recognize the continuing contribution of our intelligence officers during the week of the anniversary of the birth of Nathan Hale, an early patriot, hero, and practitioner of American intelligence, who symbolizes the selfless dedication of our nation's intelligence personnel: Now therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the week beginning June 6, 1985 is hereby designated as "National Intelligence Community Week", and the President is authorized and requested to issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to recognize the week of June 6, 1985, as "National Intelligence Community Week".
